Railsplitter Obituary

As a judge, his passions were freedom - especially political freedom – and justice, which he believed were embodied in the Constitution and American history. His fondest moments were the swearing in of new citizens, which offered him the opportunity to express his conviction that citizenship was both a great gift and a solemn responsibility. He believed that justice must be joined with mercy. He often took a personal interest in his defendants, and many letters of appreciation from them attest to his support and guidance long after sentencing. He especially enjoyed performing marriages, frequently adding humor to the seriousness of the commitment.

Randy was a devoted husband and father, and believed strongly in the value of family. Among his most cherished memories were moments with Melinda, Rudy, and Daniel, with whom he shared his love of music, keen interests in world and national affairs, and of course the Packers. Gatherings at his home with his many relatives were very special to him.

Judge Randa was loved and respected by his many friends, who will long remember him for his integrity, sincerity, humor, and strong religious faith. He had a zest for life and his poker parties for his law clerks were sought after invitations. He delighted in a cigar in the company of his many friends and family. There was always room for an extra guest at his dinner table. Faith was central to his life and he was a daily communicant at Old Saint Mary. He lived his faith and encouraged others to find strength through religious devotion.

He cared deeply for Milwaukee and his fellow citizens and took great pride in being an American. He was the recipient of many community awards, among them Rotarian of the Year. He relished 4th of July celebrations at which he took great delight in conversing about American history, the Constitution, and the Founding Fathers; he invariably ended with a rousing chorus of God Bless America.
